HIGHLY RELIABLE

A flexible ultrasonic sensor reaches those inaccessible parts of the pressure system that leakage sprays or soapy water have always found hard to reach.

The operator wears isolating headphones that provide sharp detection in even the noisiest environments. It means tiny leaks – the ones nearly always missed by spray tests – are picked up. Since little leaks generally turn into big leaks it prevents return visits but also ensures vehicles aren't sent back out onto the road while faulty.

EASY HANDLING

WABCO Leakage Detector is a standalone system, its use is intuitive and requires very little training.

With the exception of charging the batteries every so often it is maintenance free. The device does not need to be calibrated in any way.

ENHANCED SAFETY

Compared with sprays and soapy water, the ultrasonic leakage detector keeps the garage clean. It doesn't leave corrosive residues on the vehicle and it doesn't have a detrimental effect on the health and safety of operators.

The system is widely used in safety-conscious industries such as aerospace, chemical engineering and pharmaceuticals.

See for yourself that this does the job faster, cleaner and better than a spray ever could.
