

E-Learning access now made even easier!

In addition to practical training courses, WABCO University has also been offering high-quality E-Learning courses (web-based training) for selected systems for around two years now.

E-Learning course allows you to start your training at any time and without having to pay hotel or travel costs. You decide the time you want to learn and at what pace, also at the end of a course a test certifies your success and you will have access to a PIN for the corresponding diagnostic program.

Previously, access to these training courses could only be bought by using a credit card or the WABCO Webshop. This was inconvenient and involved a large administrative effort.

New: E-Learning just a few steps away

With immediate effect, new part numbers have been assigned to all available E-Learning courses so that they can now be ordered and supplied like any other WABCO product.

How does the purchase work exactly?

After the order has been received a sealed envelope containing a certificate with the access code to the respective course will be sent to the dealer, dealers can pass this on to their customers like a normal product. The customer then registers himself online at WABCO <http://wbt.wabco.info/>. The access code contained in the envelope can be used to start the desired training course immediately.

This new method permits the immediate sale of a WABCO University E-Learning course. In this way you can immediately help your customer with his training needs – for example the VCS II system start-up. Straight forward and quick!

By the way ...

We are constantly expanding our range of E-Learning courses, recently new language versions have been added (French, Spanish, and Russian for example). The user can switch between these languages at any time while working on the course. We are also working on new contents and programs.
